Davenport House 5: For The Cause

Synopsis

The family saga continues in this fifth book to Davenport House. It is springtime in 1917 when America joins the Great War in Europe. Phillip enlists to earn his citizenship papers, but Ethan must sign for the Draft against his own conscience. When both men are sent to fight, the ladies of Davenport House join noble causes on the home front while waiting for them to return. Clara, now a suffragette, is delighted to gain the attention of a secret admirer. Mary finds purpose in a new career during the nation's shortage of medical personnel. Soldiers wounded in mind and body return from the War, and unknowingly import a deadly influenza, proving to every home that a far worse battle has just begun.

Customer Reviews

I'm enjoying the Davenport House series by Marie Silk. She has a talent for bringing the characters to life while weaving in some of the history of the era.

Not bad, but I wish I knew which number of the series a book is before I order it. I would have enjoyed this more if I had read the earlier books.

Interesting story line regarding one family's history.

enjoyer iyt

Each book is better than the last. This book covers the time period of World War 1 and the Great Influenza Epidemic. The characters come to life on the pages. I love being able to see in my mind what the author has created on the pages.

Ready for #6 the whole series is great

Another good one!!

Marie is continuing to keep my attention with her characters. Lots of suspense & surprises. She has also brought in a lot of the things of that century that needed to be changed & we have benefited from the changes. It would have been hard to live under these circumstances as a woman. She also shows how sometimes we are our own worst enemies.
