Spacecraft Stickers (Dover Little Activity Books Stickers)

Synopsis

These exciting, accurately drawn sticker illustrations let you add an astronautical touch to countless flat surfaces. Included are 18 well-researched stickers depicting rockets and spacecraft important in the history of space flight: Sputnik (1957), the Soviet Union's first artificial earth satellite; America's Gemini two-man space capsule (1965); the Saturn 5 rocket booster (1969–72), launch vehicle for America's Apollo manned lunar landings; the Hubble Space Telescope, sent into orbit by the United States in 1990; and many more. Ideal for illustrating classroom assignments and for adding a space-age note to lockers, windows, notebooks, and more, these realistic, peel-and-apply images come with fact-filled captions that provide young space buffs with a mini-history of major technological developments in humanity's efforts to explore the heavens.

Grandkids love them.

Kids love them

Cute book. Very small but it's acceptable for the price

Great stickers. I should have read the description better to see if they listed dimensions. The book was smaller than I expected, but no problems otherwise.

Small but cute

great

fits perfectly for the project I'm working on, they have a lot of different themes that are skillfully rendered and artistically displayed
